Greencore Case Study

Type: Resin Repairs
Sector: Food and Drink

Greencore Cakes & Desserts

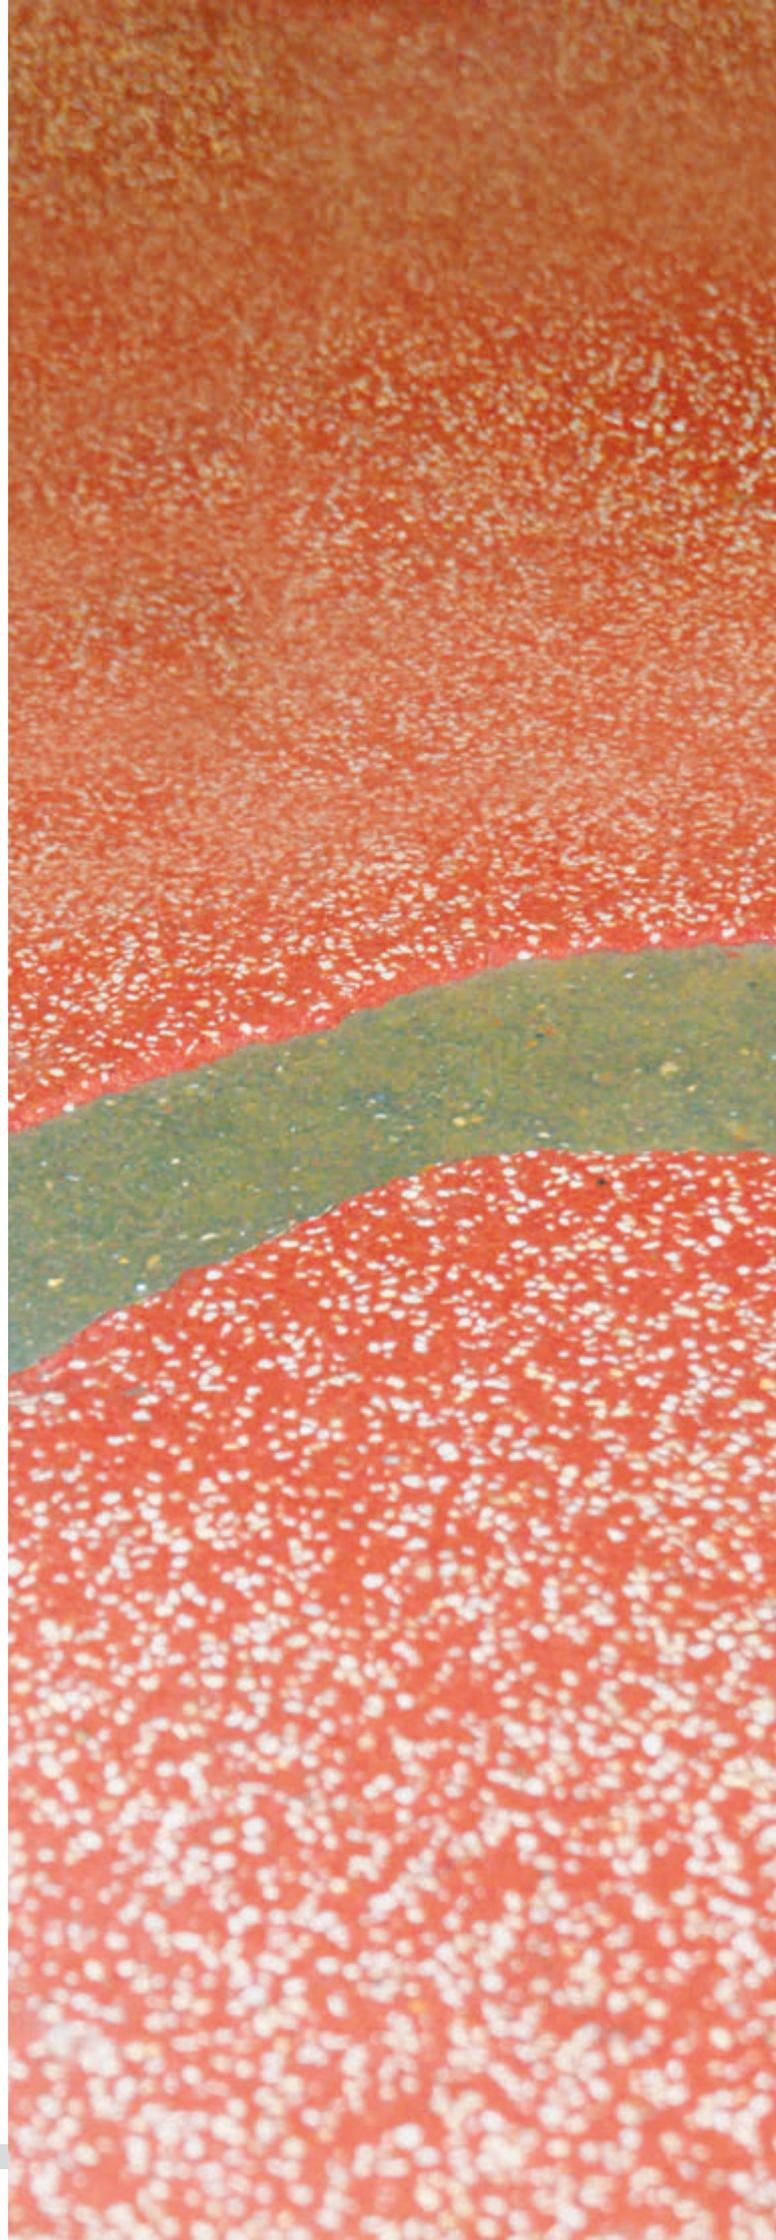

Greencore Cakes and Desserts, formerly known as Hazelwood's, is one of the largest bakeries in the UK, spanning more than 12,000m² of production area.

Greencore initially asked Vuba to visit site and give a proposal to correct the on-going flooring failures associated with an old, busy, food factory. The result was a working relationship spanning 7 years and including a total of 168 weekends work to date.

Method:

Greencore Hull is an extremely busy production facility, working almost 24 hours a day 7 days a week. Through our contact with hygiene teams and line managers we managed to secure our own slots at weekends in which to carry out repairs to each specific zone.

In addition to working closely with those on site to carry out these repairs, our team is very knowledgeable in food factory health and safety in general. Site inductions; permits for work; site safety rules and clothing rules are all part of the day to day for our team, which is why we can operate in sensitive environments with very little disruption.

From the onset of working with Vuba we realised we were getting a better standard of service, and at a much cheaper cost than we had previously experienced. In terms of their installations team they are a small close knit group and I think that helps when it comes to maintaining relationships on site week in and week out.’

‘Vuba have shown themselves to be excellent operators in the food and drink sector for many years now and I have no hesitation in recommending them whatsoever.
